

Virtual Viewing: Art to See Online Now

Due to the Coronavirus outbreak, major museums, cultural centres, universities and exhibitions are closed. Therefore, we decided to supplement our THE WEEK events section with a selected list of art exhibitions, festivals, films and publications that are available online. We will continually update this selection. If you know of any others that are not listed here, please share with us: [info\[at\]berlinartlink.com](mailto:info[at]berlinartlink.com).

TEMPORARY

ARTSPRING FESTIVAL 2020

May 9 – June 7, 2020

This year, ArtSpring—the art festival that turns Prenzlauer Berg, Weißensee and Pankow into an open-air art gallery, with the aim of making the area's studios visible and open to the public—will take place mostly online. With digital readings, performances and podcasts, artists will give virtual insights into their studios, and the festival will present their magazine content online. The ArtSpring film festival—the artspringnale—screenings will be available online as well, in cooperation with Lichtblick-Kino. Additionally, an exhibition will be presented in the 7m-long shop window of Heinrich-Böll-Bibliothek. On June 6th and 7th, artist studios may be open to the public in accordance with current hygiene protocol. Stay tuned!

www.artspring.berlin

CONTEMPORARY FINE ARTS

Mar. 07 – May 08, 2020

In her fifth solo exhibition with the gallery, entitled 'Space Lips', Katja Strunz shows new small-scale sculptures, some of which she has coloured in parts for the first time. The sculptures stand in dialogue with Strunz's signature paper collages and pulp paintings: large, two-dimensional folded collages from handmade paper laid on canvas.

cfa-berlin.de

Emilia Rigová: 'There is No Freedom Without Victory', video performance still, 2019// Courtesy of the artist

Search

GO

LET'S BE FRIENDS

Join Our Mailing List

JOIN

ADVERTISE WITH US

RECENT POSTS

- Open Call for Residency at The Farm Margaret River, Western Australia
- From Digital to IRL: How Berlin Galleries Are Navigating the Transition
- Politics of the Body in Emilia Rigová's Practice
- Virtual Viewing: Art to See Online Now
- Conflictual Topographies in Rosa Barba's Film Installations
- Stay-At-Home Studio: Artists Take Over Berlin Art Link's Instagram for Glimpse of Life Under Quarantine
- Open Call for Submissions to Interfilm Festival 2020
- Open Call for Submissions to Weserhalle Auction Fundraiser

HIGHLIGHTS

